Dear Neil:

Thanks for writing. Sorry the reply is late. I'm enclosing a leaflet explaining the general outlining of my "fund-raising" attempts. It isn't actually fund-raising, although it can be if people take it that way. I haven't written to Holly Green (I haven't written to anybody for so long, I'm not sure if I still work for COFO), but I will, and explain to her about your brother. Thanks for the advice.

As usual, we're in some kind of internal crisis. It's too close to describe calmly and analytically, and yet I can't get my mind on something else to talk about, so this letter will have to be dull and uninformative. But thanks for the response to my problem.

Yours truly,

Lois Chaffee
